THE PARTHENON MARSHALL COLLEGE

VOL. XVIII

HUNTINGTON W. VA., FRIDAY, October 22, 1920

NO. 3

HALF-MILLION DOLLARS FOR MARSHALL IS PLAN

Journalism Department is Among the Projects

To put over the most ambitious plan yet devised for the support of Marshall College, thirty business men of Huntington, representatives of the Rotary Club and Kiwanis Club and the Chamber of Commerce, in meeting at the Guandotte Club Friday at noon, unanimously approved a concrete program for the college and voted to press for an appropriation of more than a half million dollars for the institution. C. P. Snow was named chairman of the organization and H. G. Proctor, secretary.

The program formulated for improvements at the college included these projects:

A teachers college, requiring fifteen units for admission. This feature has already been established.

A pre-medic course, of two years, already begun.

A department of commercial and industry, not yet provided for, with a

GREEN & WHITE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Hollandsworth Heads Cabinet

Huffman, Patterson and Pitsenberger Chosen

At the meeting of the Green & White held last Friday afternoon, the constitution drawn up by the committee appointed by the student Board of Control was accepted in a slightly modified form. After a thorough discussion of the constitution, the officers for the year are: Ivan Hollandsworth, President; Alonzo Huffman, Vice. Pres.; Lester Patterson, Sec'y.; I. I. Pitsenberger, Treas.

"Red" Crist, Harold McKnight and Earl Burton were appointed on the membership committee to select the candidates for initiation.

The organization of this club is a signal event in the history of student organizations at Marshall. According to the constitution, the object of the

FRESHMEN HAVE PARTY

On October 9th the Freshman held their first party of the year in dormitory parlors. The evening was started with a game of "Tucker," which gave way to "Skip to My Lou," which occupied the attention for some time. Then came the Paper Races. They were interesting, and the winners were awarded prizes, such as a horn, a balloon and a gun. Following this, parts of cards were given to each person, with instructions that each boy was to find the girl who held the other half of the card. When placed together it was found that on each card was a verse which was very clever. When partners were found, refreshments were served.

Then came the Virginia Reel, followed by a game of "Skip to My Lou," which gave way to "Spin the Plate" for the remainder of the evening.

Our team and the Kentucky Wesleyan team were present and all agreed that the evening was an enjoyable one.

There was lots of pep for the first social event of the college career of the freshmen.

College Spirit

The kind of college spirit that we want at Marshall College is the constructive, progressive, responsible type. We believe that every student in Marshall College has college spirit in some form, to some degree. True, there are some who for various reasons carefully guard its expression. Putting all the students in one class as college spirited let us think of the groups of this class.

We will name first what is obviously the largest group. That is the group that needs to let its pent up college spirit grow and develop. If those in this group are inexperienced or timid, they need to remember that there are "dozens in the same boat," that they will not be criticised, but helped in every way possible. If any of them are asked to take part in Y. M. or Y. W. program, in Choral Society, in Dramatic Club, in any form of athletics, to boost the Parthenon, to do any of the numerous things connected with student activities, they should show their love for loyalty to M. C. by making a trial. A show of willingness to do a thing is always commended and appreciated.

The next in size is the group that spends all its energies in strongly manifesting its college spirit at games, assemblies or other activities, that are the results of some one else's initiative. This group is great as far as it goes, but it ought to go a little further. It ought to put its enthusiasm and influence behind such undertakings as making the Literary Society a success, or planning lively parties that will help the timid ones to launch fourth.

The third group is the smallest but most important of all. This is the group that is working over time to keep up with its many duties and responsibilities, doing the progressive, constructive work, making plans and experimentally carrying them out at a sacrifice of time and effort because their numbers are so few. Their example, more than any words, make the strongest appeal to those who are shirking responsibility.

Let us come to their aid and make the spirit of this group the universal spirit of Marshall College.

Crowd Hikes to Ritter Park

Marshmallow Toast Feature of Evening

The seven girls from Monroe County with six young men of their selection, went on a hike Friday night to Ritter Park. The party, chaperoned by Mrs. Bryant, left about six-thirty. After hiking about an hour and a half they gathered wood for a fire. In their zeal they made such a real bon-fire that it was necessary to stand at quite a distance and enjoy it while the marshmallows waited to be thrust on a stick and toasted. When there not another marshmallow left, they gathered close about the fire and Marshall songs and popular songs. They got back to the Hall about ten o'clock, a little foot-sore but happy.

Halloween Party Planned

All Classes to Participate

Plans have been made for a big Halloween party to be held at Marshall Friday, October 29th. All classes have been combined, and all students are requested to attend. Each class will have some share in the entertainment of the evening, and it is expected to give to the treasurer of his class a quarter, the money collected in this manner to be used for the purchase of suitable refreshments. Every one who attended the Halloween party last year agreed that they had lots of fun and lots to eat, so you had better give your treasurer your quarter, and then show up early on the evening of Friday, October 29th,

TRINITY ENTERTAINS MARSHALL MEN

"Get-Together" Meeting Last Friday Evening

The Men's Service Chapter of the Trinity Episcopal Church held a special meeting for the men of the Marshall faculty and student body last Friday evening in the Parish House on Eleventh Street. Invitations had been sent to all boys in school whose homes are not in Huntington, and it is to be regretted that more students did not avail themselves of the opportunity of becoming acquainted with some of Huntington's successful business men.

After the preliminary business, and some exceedingly humorous stories told by "Smiling Jake" Rarden, each one present rose and told his name and some date of interest concerning himself.

This was started by Dr. C. E. Haworth introducing the two members of the Senior Class who were present. Then several songs, the good, old-fashioned kind, added to the enjoyment.

The refreshments, served by the ladies, consisted of a bountiful supply of ice cream, cake, and coffee with real cream and sugar. Ice water and smokes were available for those who desired them.

While only a few of the boys in school were present, the men of the faculty turned out in almost full force. Several of Huntington's prominent business men--such as Robt. L. Archer, H. A. Zeller, Edmond Schon, the three Alshire brothers, "Bird" Gwinn, J. R. Haworth, and others.

Efforts are being put forth by the local churches to make Marshall students feel at home in Huntington, and we should respond by being present whenever invited.

Sophomores Hold Meeting

Plans for Party Discussed

Monday afternoon the Sophomores held a class meeting to consider their part in the party which is to be given by all classes next Friday night. A committee was appointed to see to it that the part of the Sophomores in the party is up to the standard set by that class for itself. Arrangements were also made for the purchase of refreshments and from what was said at the meeting the refreshments will be plentiful. The purchase of refreshments is in the hands of the Sophomore Class, and they request that each member of the student body give his treasurer his quarter as soon as possible, so that they will be able to plan the refreshments that will be needed.

Marshall Students Entertained

Good Time Reported

On last Friday evening the Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian Church entertained the students of Marshall College in the church parlors. Several of the young people from Marshall were there. Games were played, and at an appropriate hour a dainty luncheon was served.

 two year curriculum and courses in accounting, business management, economics, transportation and allied activities, including a short course in retail merchandising.

A department of journalism.

A sub-committee, named by C. P. Snow, permanent chairman of the Marshall College Business Men's Committee, will meet Tuesday afternoon of next week at four o'clock at the Frederick Hotel. The committee is composed of the following:

John E. Norman, president of the Rotary club. C. P. Snow, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who will be chairman of the sub-committee. L. N. Frantz, president of the Kiwanis club. H. Clay Warth, Walter C. Price, Robert L. Archer, A. W. Werninger, G. A. Northcott and W. C. W. Renshaw.

This committee will devise means for interesting friends of Marshall College throughout W. Va., Ohio, and Ky., in the program of expansion of the school.

The enrollment of students in college of the United States has increased by leaps and bounds since the year before the war. Dr. Hamilton pointed out to the meeting, stating that there are 504 students of last year's graduating class from Huntington High School enrolled in Marshall College this year.

The number of high school students coming to Marshall College will be greater next year, he declared, and the school must expand to meet the enlarged requirements.

In the year before the war, Dr. Hamilton declared, there were 139,000 students enrolled in colleges in the United States. In 1919 the number had increased to 180,000. The enrollment in 1920, he said is approximately 250,000, more than doubling the pre-war figures.

A commercial college is necessary at Marshall, he said, to meet the same needs of the merchants of West Virginia as that which the college of agriculture is designed to meet among the farmers. The proposed short course will not be under the instruction of members of the faculty at Marshall College, but of practical speakers from retail stores of Huntington, who will undertake to tell the men and women who enroll in the course how to find success and avoid failure in their respective lines.

The pre-medical course, Dr. Hamilton said, is designed merely to be the foundation of the regular medical course at the state university and colleges of medicine throughout the country.

GREEN & WHITE CLUB ELECT OFFICERS

club is "to foster the spirit of school loyalty, secure closer co operation among the men of Marshall, and to promote organized 'rooting' at all inter-collegiate contents in which Marshall is represented." It is intended also to give athletes the opportunity to enjoy more social advantages in between sport seasons. By this means it is hoped to 'fuse the men of Marshall into one organized body, having a common spirit of intense loyalty to the school, and manifesting this loyalty in every way possible. At the same time, members will enjoy many privileges, which will amply reward them for the energy expended, and add greatly to the enjoyment of school life.
